BELLEfonte, Pa., Feb. 21.—With their doom set for 7 o'clock Monday morning, Irene Schroeder, 22-year-old "gun girl," and her sweetheart, Walter Glenn Dague, former Sunday school teacher, were to be brought here today from the Lawrence county jail at New Castle, and placed in their cells in "death row" to await the fatal hour of execution. Mrs. Schroeder will be the first woman in the history of Pennsylvania to die in the electric chair.

Mrs. Schroeder and Dague will pay with their lives for the shooting to death of Corporal Brady Paul of the state highway patrol, near New Castle, December 27, 1929, as they were fleeing a holdup in Butler, Pa.

Warden Arrives.
Everything was in readiness at the penitentiary here for receiving the condemned pair. Warden Stanley P. Ashe arrived in Bellefonte last night to make final arrangements for the double execution.

It will be the first time in the history of this state that a woman has occupied a cell in the death house. Robert Elliott of New York, executioner of Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray in Sing Sing prison three years ago, will throw the switch that will send "Iron Irene" and Dague to their doom. He is expected in Bellefonte momentarily. He will make every effort to conceal his presence. Canvas of the hotels failed to disclose that he had made any reservation.

For the grisly job of executing a condemned person Elliott receives $150. There his pay for Monday's work will be $300. For years he has been throwing switches at electrocutions, having executed more persons than any other individual in the country.

At Rockview.
Mrs. Schroeder will be placed in the charge of a matron upon her arrival here.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Mrs. C. W. Brown, of Hamilton street, on Friday afternoon spied a robin redbreast sitting on an eave spout, and judging from the lusty notes of song, the bird was quite satisfied with the weather conditions here. Several people have reported hearing robins this month, but the one reported by Mrs. Brown is one of the very few actually seen.

Pa. News observes that a good many dirt streets in the city which have been in excellent condition throughout the winter are now beginning to show the effects of the wet weather during the past two weeks. Big holes are beginning to appear on the surface.

The nature study room in the North street school is an interesting place to visit as they have objects of all kinds, which the children study about. The latest addition to the collection is a big black crow, donated by Herbert Hoffmaster, son of the principal of the school.

The girls of the New Castle News were all decked out this afternoon when they appeared with dainty corsages of sweet peas, presented them by Weininger and Cunningham.

Daily Weather Report

U. S. Weather bureau statistics for the 24-hour period ending at nine o'clock this morning follows:
Maximum temperature, 36.
Minimum temperature, 31.
Precipitation .01 inches.
River stage 6.9 feet, falling.

SURVEY SHOWS BUSINESS ON DECIDED UP-GRADE IN UNITED STATES NOW

(Copyright, 1931, by International News Service)

A nationwide survey conducted by International News Service today showed that business generally throughout the country is decidedly on the up-grade.

From the New England states to the Pacific coast the reports that were gathered by telegraph showed a steady increase in employment, greater activity in almost all manufacturing lines and evidence of greater buying power everywhere. The reports showed also that within the next few weeks many large construction projects, for which the money already has been appropriated, will get under way. The reports by representatives of the International News Service follow:

Peruvian Revolt Takes Heavy Toll Of Lives, Report

Estimate That From 40 To 70 Soldiers And Civilians
Have Been Killed

AMERICAN CITIZEN LOSES HIS LIFE

Speedy Termination Of Revolt, But Not Until Much Damage Had Been Done

(International News Service)
LIMA, Peru, Feb. 21.—An abortive revolt against the government of provisional President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro came to a speedy termination here, but it was estimated today that from 40 to 70 soldiers and civilians lost their lives in the resultant fighting, including a non-participating American.

Loyal troops aided by civilians quickly routed the miniature rebel army led by disqualified officers, who were seized and imprisoned after soldiers overpowered them in the old fortress of Raal Felipe at Callao, where they had barricaded themselves.

A stray bullet which sped through the window of the English club at Callao during the fighting killed Reginald A. Skidmore, assistant marine superintendent for a New York steamship company. Officials here stated he was a native of Bethlehem, Pa.

Skidmore, 40 years old, is survived by a widow and two small children. He was playing billiards when struck down by the bullet.

Lived In Bethlehem
Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 21.—Reginald Skidmore, the American killed during an attempted revolt in Peru, was formerly from Texas, but lived in this city for a short time, it was learned here today. He was married about four years ago to Miss Kathleen Sims, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sims, of Bethlehem.

The girl's parents lived for 20 years in Chile and it was there that Skidmore made the acquaintance of Miss Sims. At the time he was employed in Chile by the W. R. Grace Company. Several months after their marriage the couple went to Peru where Skidmore lost his life. Mr. and Mrs. Sims also are still in South America, but are now reported on their way home.

Effort Is Made To Cap Big Well

Workmen Frantically Speed
Capping Of Gas Well
In Tioga County

40,000,000 CUBIC FEET IS FLOWING

(International News Service)
WELLSBORO, Pa., Feb. 21.—Efforts were to be made today to cap the new and largest gas well in Tioga county, which blew in late yesterday with a roar heard for miles, sent fourteen workmen scurrying for their lives and today was flowing at the rate of 40,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day.

The new well, said by experts to be the biggest natural gas gusher ever brought in east of the Mississippi River, is the third brought in in Tioga county within recent months. Drillers drove six feet through the gas strata on Wednesday, the crew said, then "choked" the well while awaiting arrival of pipe to be used in casing the shaft. The well was flowing at about 1,000,000 feet a day, then increased to 4,000,000 feet before the blast which sent its gas, showing white, whistling up at a forty million cubic foot flow.

Workers Flee Scene
When the gusher blew in, workers at the well ran for their lives, the escaping gas being held close to the ground by a "low ceiling." Guards were immediately posted to prevent anyone from approaching the well, for fear of ignition of matches and a consequent explosion and workers discussed methods of halting the flow.

Special methods will have to be used, it was indicated to bring the well under control because of the great pressure. One method suggested was that of "plugging" the shaft with concrete driven in under great force, in the hope of sealing it so other shafts could be sunk nearby.

Jail At Sentence
Court

Mrs. Mary Brandoline of Ellwood City, convicted of arson, was sentenced to the state industrial home for women at Muncie, Pa. for a period of from 2 to 5 years by Judge R. L. Hildebrand this morning. Mrs. Brandoline was convicted of setting fire to her residence at Ellwood City.

An application for a new trial was made following her conviction, but in an opinion handed down by Judge Hildebrand this week he refused the motion. Pleas for leniency were made in Mrs. Brandoline's behalf on the grounds that there were no actual eye witnesses to the arson. She was convicted on a strong chain of circumstantial evidence. The commonwealth maintained that she set fire to the house to obtain the insurance. When the Ellwood City firemen broke into the house Chief Plante discovered a strong odor of kerosene and two cans which had contained kerosene or gasoline.

Other Sentences

Other sentences passed by Judges Hildebrand and Chambers this morning were as follows: Gerardo Malizia of Bessemer, driving an automobile while intoxicated, $100 fine and costs and four months to the county jail. Petition for parole to be entertained upon the payment of fine and costs at the end of thirty days. Malizia, it was shown, had come to this city with a friend. He drank some wine at a home in the Croton district and was later arrested on Croton avenue, after he had collided with another car. He has a wife who is under the doctor's care and three children. A plea for leniency was made on account of his family.

Frank Aiello, aged 18 on a charge of transporting liquor, was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny county workhouse for one year. Aiello lives at Masury, O. He had five gallons of liquor in his car when he was arrested on Grant street. He claimed that he purchased the liquor from a friend.

The 36-year old monarch of the mountainous and bandit-infested kingdom escaped without a scratch, but Major Topolaki, the King's adjutant, fell dead with a bullet in his head. Minister of the Court Libanova was critically wounded.

The gunmen fired nearly a dozen shots from old-fashioned pistols before turning to flee. They were seized by pursuing citizens and police and rushed to the police station. There they were identified as Aziz Kani and N. Gjelsi, allegedly members of the Albanian revolutionary party.

Premier MacDonald Entertains Chaplin

King of Comedians Is Guest
Today of England's Premier

(International News Service)
LONDON, Feb. 21.—The King of Laughs paid a visit to King George's premier today.

Charlie Chaplin, visiting the country of his birth for the first time in ten years, was invited to spend the day as the guest of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald at Chequers, the official country residence of British premiers.

The visit promised to give the comedian a day's relief from the ordeal of playing hero to the multitudes. Chaplin had hoped that his stay in England would enable him to make pilgrimages in solitude to the drab East end districts where he spent his youth, but he has been mobbed by adulating thousands each time he stepped out of his hotel. Chaplin journeyed to Chequers in the company of Alastair MacDonald, son of the Premier, who called for the comedian at his hotel this morning.

Makes Appeal To Governor Pinchot To Save Irene

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 21.—Judah P. Benjamin, New York City, who was chairman of the Ruth Snyder clemency committee today appealed to Governor Gifford Pinchot in an effort to save Irene Schroeder from the electric chair on Monday. Benjamin made his appeal in the form of a night letter to the governor. The Governor indicated that the letter might not be answered today. Yesterday he refused a like appeal from Percy A. Rose who had been counsel for Irene.

"Should this execution be carried out it will be an eternal disgrace to the state for the legal murder of the youngest mother ever condemned to such an untimely end," the Benjamin letter read in part. "It will cast an indelible stain on the fair escutcheon of the cradle of American liberty."

CROWD SURROUNDS JAIL ON DEPARTURE

Start Of Trip To Rockview
Is Made By Auto—Execution
Monday

Smiling as though she were going out just for a short trip, calling goodbye to her fellow prisoners, Irene Schroeder left the Lawrence County jail at 11:25 this morning, bound for the state prison at Rockview, there to pay with her life on Monday morning, for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul. With her, but more serious minded was her partner in banditry, Walter Glenn Dague, who like the Gun Girl on Monday morning will also be electrocuted for the same crime.

Preceded by burly officers, Irene came out of the back door of the sheriff's house, shackled to Mrs. Frank N. Johnston, wife of the sheriff. Dague followed, shackled to the sheriff. With the party went Mrs. Mary Conn, court interpreter, and Miss Cunningham, a nurse. County Detective H. M. Lee accompanied the party as did Constable Thomas P. O'Brien. State police are expected to join the party on the road.

Irene was covered up with a heavy coat, with a fur collar, which looked as though it was new. Underneath she had on a dark dress and a black cloche hat covered her head. From under the hat peeped not the golden blond tresses of a year ago, but dark brown hair, the natural color of her hair. Dague had on a dark suit and a brown overcoat with a brown hat. He was freshly shaven but appeared to have lost a little weight in the past few weeks. Just before they started they were given a meal of hot soup, meat, bread and coffee.

Probably By Auto
Two courses were possible for the party. If the roads seemed good enough to drive it was possible that they would drive by way of Butler, Kittanning, Hollidaysburg and Tyrone. If the roads seemed dangerous, it was planned to turn off at Butler, drive into East Liberty and there take Train 46, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, leaving East (Continued On Page Eight)

Three Gangsters Shot To Death In Feud At New York

Alcohol Racketeering Feud Results in Death of Three Gangsters

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Gangsters roaring beneath a poisonous curtain of bootleg fumes in a battle to the death for alcohol racketeering profits, scratched three gangsters out of the reckoning today. Three other men were wounded. A hotel on East 29th street, was the chief battleground in a series of three shootings during the flap-ups in one of the bitterest East side gang feuds in years. In the seventh floor room of the hotel lying on his back near a table littered with empty liquor bottles and glasses, Albert Wagner was found shot to death. His brother, Abe Wagner, was badly wounded, but escaped, police were told.

Another who survived the battle with five bullet wounds is Charles Brown, alias Marcus Weber, 26. A few hours before a rival gang broke in, shooting into the room where Al Wagner and three of his crowd had repaired, John Max "Aces" Marza, ex-convict and East Side dandy, was put on the spot by four men in front of a restaurant. The same volley that killed Marza critically wounded Joseph Kolski, 20. The third murder was in the Bronx where the body of John Franzone, 32 was found in the middle of a street.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 21.—Well, yesterday I had what I thought was a kinder funny "gag." I said the people the Red Cross really should reach was the ones away back in the woods that no one ever heard of, the senate and congress of these United States. Well, I pick up the paper this morning and I find their sense of humor didn't jibe with mine. They had added the word not to the senate and congress, and made it so it not only didn't have any humor, but no sense. What I am trying to get at (if I can get the papers to use it as I want it), is to have the Red Cross care for congress and the senate, instead of having it done as a "dole" from the taxpayers, as it is now. Miller Wins In Car Smash Case

Jury of Eight Men and Four Women Spend All Night
In the Jury Room

Three women and eight men spent all last night in a jury room at the court house, being unable to agree upon a verdict in the case of Julius Bogenschultz against J. W. Miller, which was tried before Judge Hildebrand. The case was one growing out of an automobile accident near Conneaut, O. Each blamed the other for causing the accident. The jury retired shortly after noon, yesterday, later coming in for further instructions. All night they deliberated in the jury room, but when their breakfasts were sent in this morning they had not reached a verdict. About 10 o'clock this forenoon the jury came in and returned a verdict in favor of the defendant, J. W. Miller. After the verdict had been rendered an attorney for the plaintiff asked that the jury be polled. This was refused as it has not been the practice of the court here in civil actions.

So I must hold for other days, those words of balmy days, and sing of winter, cold and dark, while February stays

Battle At Canal Is Ended Today

Annual Battle For Panama Canal By Pacific Fleet Is Concluded

LOS ANGELES HAS PART IN EVENTS

By LIEUT. RAYMOND F. TYLER, International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD U. S. S. LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—The great "naval war" for possession of the Panama Canal was ended today, with the "attack" partially successful but capture of the main objective itself still in doubt. The annual maneuvers of the United States Pacific fleet, aided by scores of planes and the Dirigible Los Angeles, demonstrated conclusively the advantage of the combined sea and air defense of the "big ditch." But proved also the necessity for continued study and development of lighter-than-air craft. The Los Angeles actually accomplished her mission in gratifying manner but almost immediately after was "destroyed" with little trouble by her foe.

Desertion Charged In Divorce Case

Mrs. Louise Rea Ferrell has filed an application at the prothonotary's office for a divorce from her husband, Charles Norman Ferrell on the grounds of desertion. They were married in September, 1928. The desertion is alleged to have taken place on August 29. After their marriage Ferrell lived at the Y. M. C. A. and Mrs. Ferrell at her home until July 1929, when they went to Pittsburgh, where Ferrell secured a position playing in an orchestra at "The Plantation." They took rooms at the Ritz apartments. It was while there that Mrs. Ferrell says that her husband deserted her without any provocation.

arrival at Rockview penitentiary. A partition has been erected in the cell block which will prevent her from engaging in any long distance conversation with her lover. Whether the pair will be permitted to say goodbye to each other on Monday morning was a matter upon which the warden would not commit himself. Neither would he say whether the relatives of the condemned couple would be allowed to see them while they are in the death house. As the hour of the double execution approaches, Mrs. Schroeder and Dague are reported to be losing some of their steel-nerved composure. From the county jail at New Castle came word last night that Mrs. Schroeder's eyes showed signs of weeping and that Dague has taken to reading the Bible for consolation. Today preparations are under way for the executions. The town of Bellefonte is filling up with newspaper men and witnesses. Scores have applied for a chance to witness the double electrocution, but only 12 persons will be admitted to the death chamber, six of them newspaper men.

The term "unearned increment" was unknown until John Stuart Mill invented it in 1873.

The following story is interesting, first because of its age, and second, because it casts a light on the insurance methods of a former day. The story is nearly a century and a half old.

A certain insurance company operating in that day issued a policy to some merchants for protection of their places of business against fire. The policy provided that the company would be liable for loss by fire caused by war or rebellion and then it specified that policy holders who suffered loss should immediately notify the company and as soon as possible a certificate signed by some representative householder of the neighborhood, by the minister and church wardens.

One night the place of business of one of these merchants was burned to the ground. The merchant immediately notified the insurance company and followed it with a detailed account with the certificate signed by four, and not one, representative householders, but the minister and wardens refused to sign. The company, upon this, refused to pay the loss. The merchant sued.

How would you decide this case? Make up your mind before you read the decision. (Decision will be found on classified page.)

STEEN SUBMITS ANNUAL REPORT

City Had Good Health Conditions During 1930, Officer States

Dr. William L. Steen, city health officer, has submitted a report covering 1930 health conditions here to members of city council. His report states the city during the period was remarkably free from communicable diseases, excepting during the spring when a mild epidemic of measles occurred. He reported that there was no smallpox and he ascribed this as a triumph for vaccination. Of the 12,000 pupils in the public school only six were admitted without vaccination "because of poor physical condition." No patients were confined at the municipal hospital.

He commented on the drought and said there while the water was free from dangerous contamination it was impossible to remove the objectionable taste in the water. Tests were made daily of the city water, Steen reported.

Steen said in the report that milk men who were unsanitary in their methods or lacked proper equipment had been refused permits to sell milk in the city. He declared good clean milk should contain less than 25,000 bacteria per c. and milk with more than 100,000 bacteria is classed as unsanitary and sale is prohibited.

In regard to the sanitary inspection, he declared there were 4,478 inspections by the officers and that 205 complaints of nuisances were investigated. Food inspections were made regularly.

The municipal nurse made 162 visits to homes under quarantine for contagious diseases and gave practical instructions and demonstrated the proper way to handle patients and to prevent others from becoming infected.

Garbage collection was efficiently carried out and the report says that 7,399 tons were collected and burned and 1,200 loads were hauled to the plant by private firms.

The street has become pretty muddy and ashes are being hauled onto the street to put it in shape for traffic again.

Asches are also being placed on other dirt streets which have been in bad shape from the recent rains. There is a scarcity of ashes at the present time, however, and only the worst streets are being taken care of at the present time.

STAR LORE

ELEMENT OF ACCURACY IN TAKING TIME FROM THE STARS

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter The ancient method of taking time at noon from the shadow cast by a vertical shaft called the Gnomon was not accomplished with the great precision made possible by the transit telescope and the Chronograph. A transit telescope is a small telescope mounted with axis bearings exactly parallel with the celestial equator. Its object glass is divided north and south into exact halves by a thread of spider web exactly parallel with the meridian. The observer watches the star as it approaches the filament and just as the filament bisects the star, the observer presses an electric button on the Chronograph and he has registered the exact time to within a hundredth of a second.

COLONIAL PROGRAM IN LEGION HOME

Father Time turned the clock backward about a hundred years or more, or so it seemed Friday evening at the American Legion Home, as the members of the Auxiliary appeared for their business meeting and tea.

Quant dresses of every description, with wraps to match, were displayed by the members and one particularly beautiful old Paisley shawl and dainty pantalets were worn by one member. The small chapeaux and flaming brim hats fitted nicely onto the powdered wigs and curls.

During the business session four new members were initiated and teams appointed for a membership campaign, with Mrs. Gertrude Festoso and Mrs. Edgar McKee as captains. Plans were made for a St. Patrick bingo party for the members and the families, to be held March 20. Mrs. Carl Wallace was appointed chairman for a card party on March 31 and the regular meeting will be March 6.

Closing the business session the members were invited to the dining room of the Home where a long table had been most carefully laid for the serving of tea. A table cover of ancient days was used and dishes that dated back to Revolutionary days had been brought out for use and hand dipped candles which were yellowed with age in old fashioned glass holders, gave a faint idea of the poor lights our ancestors had to see by.

Cake holders and plates which had served on tables in by gone days, held the modern delicacies which were served for lunch. Mrs. Mary Arnett, Mrs. Eleanor Runkle and Mrs. Ida Suber, presided at the tea table.

In keeping with the costumes and table accessories were the recitations that were given by Lillie Hartman, Mrs. Mary Arnett, Mrs. Ida Suber, Mrs. Gertrude Festoso, Mrs. Anna Sturdy and Mrs. Simon Hartman. They had all been culled from books of long ago and were received by the audience with enthusiasm.

Mrs. Carl Wallace accompanied with an old vocal number pleasing herself and Mrs. Eleanor Runkle sang a number accompanied by Mrs. Wallace.

Games were resurrected from the time of our grandmothers and after an hour of these the members departed pronouncing the "Colonial" party a decided success.

FURTHER EVIDENCES OF BUSINESS CONFIDENCE

THERE is something contagious about optimism—particularly when that optimism is based upon common sense and the experience of the past. Thus the announcement that the Pennsylvania Railroad is to disburse $175,000,000 in improvements in the next two and a half years is quickly followed by the statement that the other Eastern railroads are preparing to spend large sums of money which will boost the aggregate for this part of the country to between $500,000,000 and $700,000,000.

These figures are record-breaking. The New York Central alone plans to spend approximately $250,000,000. As in the case of the Pennsylvania Railroad, these programmes indicate a confidence in the future of this country, reminds the Philadelphia Inquirer. Probably most persons have this same feeling. The railroads are looking for an early recovery of trade and industry and they are backing their belief with real money. These executives know very well that when the long-expected "turn" comes in business they will be called upon to handle vast amounts of freight and they do not want to be caught napping. Hence they are engaged in what is known as preparedness. The most interesting part of this situation lies in the fact that practically all the railroads spent more than usual last year in an effort to comply with President Hoover's request to relieve unemployment and stimulate business. That they are willing to spend still more this year shows a confidence that is more impressive than words.

It is worth while remembering that the disbursement of these large budgets will have a stimulating effect on trade and industry. At the outset millions will go into steel. This means that more men will find employment in the steel mills. And that means, in turn, that these men will have money with which to patronize the storekeepers. And so it goes until there is activity all along the line.

In the existing emergency the railroads are showing a spirit of enterprise that borders on patriotism. They are displaying confidence and courage, and their example will surely hasten the inevitable return of better days.

AN EDUCATIONAL EXPERIMENT

AN EXPERIMENT just concluded at the University of Wisconsin may throw much light upon the efficiency of the curricular educational system now in use in all American schools and universities. But for the results it is necessary to wait until such time as the products of the experimental college can be compared with ordinary college students.

In the experimental college the first two years of university education were replaced by a tutorial system of study of civilizations. The experimental students formed a separate unit, living in their own dormitory and having their own classrooms.

After two years of experimental training the students were transferred to the regular classes and courses and their performance in comparison with the regular classes and courses and their performance in comparison with the regular students noted. The results are now being analyzed.

This experiment in education might prove either that the old way is inefficient and unsuited to modern conditions or that a better substitute has not been found. Or perhaps it will show that one system is about as good as another, the intelligence and capacity for work of the pupils compared being equal.

Although not satisfied with the results of the system in use, the public is skeptical of radical departures from the old.

UNCLE TOM PASSES

Of all the plays ever written it is said that the one given most performances was "Uncle Tom's Cabin," played for the first time in 1853 and produced continuously until a short time ago. In the heyday of its popularity dozens of companies were producing it at the same time.

But now, according to a theatrical magazine, for the first time in more than three-quarters of a century, there is not a single company playing Uncle Tom anywhere. And a writer in the Outlook remarks with a tinge of sadness:

"It is hard to believe that there are no more Elizas leaping from canvas ice-block to canvas ice-block, no creaking pulleys bearing Little Eva to Heaven, no snarling Simon Legrees in the world. Is there no audience left to shudder at Simon, chuckle at Topsy, thrill at the bloodhounds and sob at Little Eva's death?"

Apparently not, but if flesh and blood Tom people are to be seen no more, it seems that a talkie of the show that thrilled millions should be made for posterity. And who knows but what it might be a big hit on the screen?

TOO MUCH HOKUM IN RADIO

Unless radio broadcasting stations throughout the country heed the handwriting on the wall, they are doomed to suffer the wrath of an aroused public. Unless they adhere more closely to their fundamental purposes of providing clean and wholesome entertainment, and the spread of general knowledge, their usefulness will be so greatly impaired that the public will return to the phonograph for home entertainment. It will be the only means of escaping the unwelcome features that are now forced upon them.

Lee DeForest, radio engineer and executive, a pioneer in wireless, and a man with the welfare of broadcasting at heart, has publicly sounded the warning that has been voiced by obscure individuals. Listen to his indictment against conditions which threaten the very life of an industry to which he has given years and years of thought and effort. He says:

"A radio menace steadily growing greater, more ruthless, more deserving of suspicion and more generally detested, is the use of the broadcast for direct and blatant advertising in larger and longer doses."

DeForest would have the radio industry, that came out of his dreams, continue to grow and become more useful with the years. He would have it become a necessary part of present day life, and filling a need in the chain of modern communication. He is looking at the situation as an engineer, hoping and working for further improvements and as an executive, interested in the radio as an industry adding wealth to the world. His opinion must, therefore, be considered as unbiased and a sincere expression of his convictions.—The Champaign News-Gazette.

Sun sets tonight 5:41. Sun rises tomorrow 6:47.

"Did you fall?" said a man rushing to the rescue of a woman who slipped on the icy pavement one morning. "Oh, no," she said, "I just sat down to see if I could find any four-leaf clovers."

To accommodate tourists, Saint Peter is now keeping the golden gate open until 2 a. m.

Null and Void: The modest bride who took a chaperone along on her honeymoon.

Old Men Make Best Husbands
Second marriages are happiest, says Mrs. Margaret Sanger who has recently contracted one, the bridegroom being J. Noah Slee, 62-year-old millionaire. Old men, says Mrs. Slee, make the best lovers. An old man has learned what a precious thing affection is. You can't take a plant and poke at it, bruise it, cut it and tramp on it, and expect it to live, says Mrs. Slee, and yet that is what young married people are doing continually with each other's affections. Mrs. Slee clinches her argument with this: "If you were hunting some one to manage a business, wouldn't you want some one with experience?" Sure, you would!

American Tragedies: The poor little Polles girl who doesn't know where her next heel is coming from.

Dear Hints and Dints:—Some people try to square themselves with God by nibbling at the breast of some science.

Many men should have an assistant to tell them just when to plug up the conversation.

The man who does not advertise because he tried and failed, should throw away his cigar because it won't stay lit.

Keep the parlor shades down. Last leap year many a girl lost her chance because the shades were up.

Boston's Sandwich Queen
At 16, Sadie Kelley, cashier in a Boston restaurant, noticed that while most of the men ate sandwiches they seldom had a good word to say about them, and she realized that men cooks didn't know how to make sandwiches that look good and tasted good. Sadie saved her money and bided her time and at 21 opened a downtown restaurant, where she sold sandwiches and coffee and pie with the "just like mother makes" flavor. These were her specialties, nothing else was offered, except one of Sadie's smiles.

Less than a year Sadie had to open a second restaurant. Now, at 26, she is making $30,000 a year, lives in a mansion built and furnished at a cost of $40,000, rides around in a handsome sedan, and any Boston bank will discount her note for $25,000.

Take It Or Leave It: Many a fellow who thinks he's "hot" isn't even luke warm.

You never see middle-aged or ancient animals cicking up their heels and acting foolish in the fond belief that violent exercise will make them young again. Nature causes all young things to play because exercise is needed to develop their bodies. And she causes all old creatures to slow down because their machinery is wearing out and can't stand much strain. Our teeth wear our as our stomachs do because nature wants us to eat soft foods. Buy store teeth to chew beefsteak and you must expect the old stomach to rebel. Nature knows her onions. She wanted you to exercise vigorously at 45, she would make you feel colicky.

Man's environment guides his evolution and the human animal may some day evolve into a winged creature who can fly into his theater seat without treading on toes.

Momentous Moments: When a porous plaster salesman gets all wrapped up in his work.

BLESSED BLAZE
A small boy was watching a glorious red glow in the sky in the direction of the village with an expression of delighted awe.

"Ah, my boy," said an old man, "I see that you, too, admire the beauties of nature. That is a wonderful sunset, isn't it?"

"That's not a sunset," said the boy. "That's our school on fire!"

Have just read a new story of a woman who was saved from drowning by her skirts, but she was an elderly woman and they were that kind of skirts.

Mr. Hint and Dint: No one was allowed to talk to the little boy right after his appendix was removed, not even his mother, but his teacher called when the nurse was out of the room, temporarily. The little boy held up his finger.

"Sh, sh. I can't talk to you and you can't talk to me," he said.

"Why not?" teacher asked.

"I don't know, unless it's because they're cut my independence out," he answered.—Grandma.

This world is so full of a number of things. They found 253 needles in a London woman.

TOO BAD!
Wife: "Oh, dear, O dear, I dreamt that you had died."

Hubby: "Don't cry, dear. Why let a bad dream upset you so. I'm still with you."

Wife: "Yes, I know darling, but I was about to cash your insurance check when the alarm woke me, and spoiled it all."

Maybe one trouble with business during the past year is that there has been too much golf for several years before that.

A Washington man traveling in the mountains of West Virginia, stopped at a cabin and asked for a drink of water, and an old lady obligingly satisfied his want. He had quite a talk with her and told her great stories of some of the wonders he had seen. Finally, when he stopped to take a breath, the old lady took her pipe out of her mouth and said: "Stranger, of I knowed as much as you do, I'd go some're and start a little grocery."

Maybe if we could have another big war, times would get back to normal in a hurry.

A Clever Bank
Terry had opened his first bank account, and paid a sheaf of bills by check. At the end of the month the bank returned to him a statement of his balance and a bunch of the canceled checks.

He examined them with growing excitement, and called to Bridget: "Sure it's a smart bank I'm doing business with. Oi paid all me bills wid checks, and dog my cats if the bank hasn't been slick enough to get every one of the checks back for me!"

Five percent seems a pitifully small return on your money until you've tried to get ten percent and lost your principal.

Europe is learning much about the United States which isn't so from American films in its movie theaters.

For instance, a German woman, newly arrived from the old country, refused to leave a train when it arrived at her destination, Leavenworth, Kan., because she believed she had reached the land of wild Indians. It was necessary to forcibly remove her, and not until she saw her sister and had been assured of her safety, would she believe she was in a civilized community.

Are you looking for a man's size job? Yes? Then harken to this, from the Lunenburg, Va., paper: "Manufacturer of floor covering requires the services of a man to cover the states of Virginia and West Virginia."

Too Up His Offer
An ancient car came chugging up to the gate of the fair grounds, and the man at the gate came out to collect the admission.

"One dollar for the car," he said. "Take it or leave it," he said.

"I'll take it," said the driver.

Prohibition Administrator Woodcock claims that he did not see a single drunken man on two recent tours. Maybe the boys are learning how to carry it better.

A woman, whom I knew when she was a little girl, and when I was a little boy, says she has an old-fashioned autograph album, in which I wrote:

MUST WE TALK?
Must we always be saying things? Need we gabble forever of things that do not count? Need we?

We meet. I say hello, you say hello. I say it's a fine day and it's good to see the sunshine. You agree and ask me how I am. I hope you're really interested. I assume you are, and I tell you, shortly. I ask after your family, too, because I want to know. You tell me—and I'm sorry your children have been under the weather.

We've said enough, we've passed the time of day. . . . I'm going your way, you're going mine, we'll go along together. Need we chatter every minute of the way? You have your thoughts and I have mine; let us digest them as we go.

Let us not be embarrassed by silence. Silence, that "friend who never betrays," more eloquent than words, more musical than any song, the perfect herald of joy, expressive silence, the rebellion of the people in the presence of kings, the wisest diplomacy, the most beautiful of voices, silence that lets us hear the whisper of the gods. "I'll speak to thee in Silence," I'll hold my tongue as you hold yours.

There is no law that reads: "Any citizen who walks the streets in silence is hereby adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor and may be sentenced to six months of labor in the nearest boiler factory." There is no law of any kind, except that mischievous law of our own embarrassment, our own self-distrust, that commands us to fill every gap in time with speech that has no meaning.

It's true enough that "nature abhors a vacuum," but who set free the strident infamy that silence is a vacuum?

Keep your peace, give silence a chance. Your friend will spread your praise abroad, saying: "He does not chatter all the time, he is still water running deep, and when he talks he says something." He will be grateful.

So we come to the corner where we part. We walked along in silence and we were not troubled. And I said to myself, "There goes a fine fellow. You don't need to talk to him if you have nothing to say. He makes no demands." And thought you scratch your head and beat your brains, where will you find me higher praise than that?

TIME
Through all the days of strife and war, And every care which mortals know, Time's face unchanged remains.

With a twill neither weep nor smile, But, calm, complacent all the while, It starts our ships and trains.

Precisely to the minute, too, The note we signed last month falls due.

Comes Easter Sunday when it should, To men of evil ways and good, And though we win, and though we fail,

Time never halts its flight, Or turns to look or stays to see What's happening to you and me.

Man is beset by countless things! Distraction rounds him daily flings Temptations in his way.

He loses out because he stays To watch the firemen fight a blaze Or little children play.

His plan the touch of chance upsets, Man falters, blunders and forgets.

Man breaks his leg or fails to think Or takes too much of food and drink But time does none of these.

The clock ticks the hours away, Nor great nor little hand will stay A mortal's whim to please.

And that is the way that we fall, Time doesn't seem to care at all.

LOOK IN THE MIRROR
You like to criticize others but you won't stand for criticism of your own words and actions.

For reasons that none is able to understand you have unwarranted faith in your own opinions.

Notwithstanding the opportunities that others have had to gain information and experience, you give little attention to their opinions; if they are at variance with your own.

Just why should you be most heavily endowed with gray matter? Have you not often been in error?

Certainly, and yet you arrogantly support only your own decisions. You may be in a position that enables you to be dictatorial.

If you exhibit this quality in your own affairs you have a right to. But you miss many opportunities for knowledge by your attitude.

If you seek to inject your positive ideas into the affairs of others you over step your rights.

This is when you arouse the antagonism of those whom you seek to browbeat.

"In coming into the presence of your honor, I experience the same feeling as the Hindu when he bows before his idol. I realize that you are a deity, but I feel that you are great!"

This suggests another story about Rufus:

A lawyer who was a Jew and who became one of the famous members of the New York bar, was employed by a wealthy client upon his first important case. The Jew asked perfunctory of his client to associate Mr. Choate in the case. The client assented—so did Rufus.

The case was won, and the Jew asked Rufus: "Do you think that $5,000 would be too great a fee for our services?"

"Let me handle that matter," replied Choate, and later the Jew received a letter from the great lawyer enclosing $12,500 as his half of the fee collect.

The Jew immediately seized his pen and wrote:

"Dear Mr. Choate:

I acknowledge the receipt of your letter enclosing your check for $12,500, being my share of the fee in— case. I wish to thank you for all that you have done in this matter and I remain,

Nation Finds Satisfaction In Quashing Of Butler Case

Believes It Is Best To Avoid Embarrassing Testimony And To Accept Record Of Marine Officer As That Of A Brave And Patriotic Fighter

Escape from the necessity of a court martial for Maj. Gen. Snedley Butler is found to be very satisfactory to the country. His apology for a verbal attack on Premier Mussolini of Italy, the American apology to Rome, and a Navy reprimand are declared sufficient to end the case. It is suggested that the trial would have added to the prestige of the officer.

"Withdrawal of court-martial proceedings and the closing of the incident with a severe reprimand at the hands of the Secretary of the Navy," in the opinion of the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, "will no doubt be satisfactory to the country as well as to the friends of an indiscreet and talkative officer, who, notwithstanding his indiscretions in peace time, has a brilliant record of war service."

"Just when the country was getting ready for heavy firing with no quarter given or asked," according to the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE, "the high explosive shells and sharp turn out to be mere smoke bombs." That paper holds that if the case had been tried, "it would have been impossible to avoid an atmosphere of sensationalism which could only have aggravated whatever feeling may exist over the incident."

"Gen. Butler again proves himself an excellent soldier," says the MORRISTOWN DOMINION-NEWS. "His retreat was a good strategic move, considering the overwhelming strength of the attacking forces. The General may still wear his 'The World' badge with pride. The source of satisfaction to the public, which has a sincere regard for Gen. Butler because of his distinguished services and the conspicuous courage shown by him in battle."

ary Club appreciated the obligation of one gentleman to another."

"We have no doubt," states the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE, "that the incident now closed, but that should have been closed a good many days earlier, with the historical future become one of those cases, like the execution of the Duke d'Enghien or the affair of the queen's diamond necklace and a hundred lesser ones, that future historians will dig up and decide this way or that according to their temperaments: 'Did Mussolini hit-and-run? Yes! No! Yes! No!'"

The result "should have a very salutary effect upon the fiery officer of the Marines," according to the HAMILTON EVENING JOURNAL, while the INDIANAPOLIS STAR believes that "a hearing of the case would have developed unpleasant angles," and the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH is impressed by the thought that, "unless a verdict of guilty were returned, the embarrassment caused by Gen. Butler's speech would have been compounded" by a court martial.

"The Secretary of the Navy might have been constrained to let the trial take place," according to the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, "had it not been for Gen. Butler's admissions and explanations. They enabled the Secretary to close the disagreeable incident by a formal reprimand. Certainly neither the United States nor Italy would have derived benefit from a sensational trial. Both countries now are relieved of an embarrassing situation. The undramatic outcome should be the source of satisfaction to the public, which has a sincere regard for Gen. Butler because of his distinguished services and the conspicuous courage shown by him in battle."

The Visitor From Mars

A Tale Of Two Worlds
By S. S. MYERS

CHAPTER V.

When I explained the purpose of our war-ships my companion was horrified. The idea that people would plan to kill each other was appalling to him. He regarded it as a crime for which the Creator would hold us responsible. "Does not your law say 'Thou shalt not kill'?" he inquired.

"Yes," I replied, "but there are conditions under which it cannot be avoided." This he could not understand, and I did not attempt to discuss the matter with him at that time.

We left Los Angeles and journeyed to Chicago, he making notes quite frequently along the way. On arriving in Chicago I took him first to one of the largest cemeteries and explained that beneath every headstone and monument lay the body of a former citizen who has either died or been killed. It was all very amazing to him. We then visited some of the hospitals in order that he might witness some of the pain and suffering of humanity. After a day spent in the hospitals I noticed that he was very much depressed and, in order to take his mind away from the scenes he had witnessed I led him to talk about things on Mars.

"You say there are artificial water ways on Mars; some of these canals must be hundreds of miles long, and it certainly required great engineering skill and a vast amount of labor to construct them?"

"It doubtless would have required much labor on this planet," said he, "where the gravitational force is about twice as great as it is on Mars and where you do not seem to have the appliances that we have for such work. It was all done by electric machinery. I notice that here you have only begun to use electricity; you are still ignorant of its great possibilities. Here you use electricity to push your conveyances on the surface; we use it for transportation above the surface. We cannot use airplanes such as you have, because of the thinness of our atmosphere, but our airships are controlled by electricity and we send them where we will through the air."

"When making your artificial waterways did you have to cut through great hills and mountains?"

"We have no such great mountain ranges on Mars like the one we passed over coming here. The surface of our planet is more level and rolling, with here and there hills and low mountain ranges."

"Are there any lakes, seas or oceans on Mars?"

"The sea of the sun is our largest body of water. During the melting season of the polar ice cap its dimensions expand many miles. It is the great reservoir for our water supply."

"Is there much waste surface on your planet?"

"Nothing except a few swamps. There was a time when our planet had much more water than now. Then there was a great ocean and some smaller bodies of water, but they have long since diminished until nothing but the swamps remain. The old ocean and sea beds are now our most fertile regions."

After a week in Chicago we journeyed to New York City where we visited most of the places of interest. I took him out to the zoo where we spent two whole days because of his great interest in live animals such as he had never seen on Mars, some of which had never existed there, and others which had been extinct for thousands of years. He was especially interested in the monkeys and large apes, studied them carefully and made copious notes.

Another place of great interest to him was the Museum of Natural History. We spent considerable time there also. The sub-way excited his curiosity, as he informed me that they had never had anything of the kind on Mars. We finally visited the docks where I explained our ocean liners and transportation system.

We next visited Washington City and made our way to the Capitol building where, after going through it, I explained our system of government while he took notes.

We remained only two days in Washington and then started on a tour of the south and west, arriving back at our starting point two months later.

A thing that at first interested and puzzled my companion was the negro population of the country. He mistook them for a species of highly developed animals until I explained that they were a branch of the human race, and that he would find people of various colors among the inhabitants of the earth, some of them possessed with a higher degree of intelligence than many of the white people.

We arrived at my cabin in the afternoon and found everything as we had left it. Evidently no one had been near the place during our absence. That evening, when discussing the events of our journey, I inquired:

"Now that you have traveled over a part of our planet and seen some of our people and their manner of living. What are your impressions concerning us?"

"There is much I cannot understand—many things puzzle me. Everywhere I have noted a spirit of unrest, discontent and unhappiness. The people seem to be seeking for something they do not find. And in addition to this there is all manner of lawlessness—dishonesty, jealousy, hatred, murder, robbery, warfare, disappointments, pain, sorrow, suffering and death! It appears as though a curse is resting upon this planet. There is something wrong—what is it?"

"You have well said there is something wrong. Our first parents, unlike yours, disobeyed the very first mandate of the Creator and, in doing so, immediately fell from the high estate in which they had been created, and brought all of this into our world, transmitting to their descendants the impulse to transgress the laws of the Creator. As a result we must all experience physical death at least, and perhaps worse."

"What an awful condition!" He exclaimed.

AMBUSH BUG EXPLAINS

The green monster shook his head and showed his teeth again but this time in a smile.

"You can't fight with me. I never fight."

"Why not?" demanded Peter.

"I don't have to. I lurk in ambush and pounce upon my prey when they are not expecting me! I find that an excellent way to avoid trouble."

"Then you're not only a cannibal. You're a coward," cried Peter.

"Call me that if it suits you. You can't hurt my feelings!" said the green monster. "But folks who know me, call me Ambush Bug."

"A title no self-respecting insect would feel proud of!" taunted Peter.

"Well, maybe I'm not self-respecting, but the name suits me all right."

The green monster nodded his head several times. Evidently the fellow was well pleased with himself.

"Listen, stranger, let me tell you something. All the insects have heard of me, and if they do not

Foster's Weather Forecast

Washington, February 21, 1931.—Storm wave of moderately severe force, expected to cross continent during week centering on 18, will move well down into southern states, following what is termed in these bulletins the "southern transcontinental storm path." This storm period is expected to result in one of the open periods, extending into the far north, forecasted to occur during the present Winter; a period unfavorable to winter grains as far south as principal winter grain belt of U. S., as cold wave following this period will be expected to reach down to the Ozarks and farther south in Rocky Mountain country. Storm wave of moderate force, expected to cross continent in central transcontinental storm path, northern winter wheat belt, during week centering on 26, will cause a period of below normal temperatures covering last week of February and first days of March; during passage of this storm period, moderate weather conditions will prevail, before and after this storm center reaches your vicinity, cold waves will be expected to be general and to carry temperatures below normal or a little lower than usual. As a general advice for North America, early planting of all crops is advisable for Spring of 1931, but, excepting southern Texas and other areas that are below the frost line, it will not be advisable to let warm period during last half of February rush planting ahead of time when it would be done during the average season. By the end of March I will expect sufficient surface moisture to be present over practically all of continent to give spring planting a good start; moisture is now coming to the dry spots about as expected, probably a little heavier in parts of Texas than forecasted; distribution of precipitation during balance of February and month of March will be general and favorable to all crops in the ground at that time or shortly to be planted.

Forecasts of cropweather features expected during March will appear in next weekly bulletin. Moon phases that occur during the near future are as follows, given to nearest hour of Greenwich Civil time; to change Greenwich Civil time to your Local Standard time, count one hour earlier for each fifteen degrees of longitude you are located west from Greenwich: First Quarter February 25 at 17 hours; Full Moon March 4 at 11 hours; Last Quarter March 11 at 5 hours; New Moon 19 at 4 hours; First Quarter 27 at 5 hours; Full Moon April 2 at 20 hours.

Prof. Einstein states that his unified theory, has had a hard blow from Dr. Hubble's observations that show distant nebulae traveling away from the center of the visible universe, some at the rate of 7,200 miles a second. There is no surprising discovery in Dr. Hubble's observations excepting probably that they show how foolish a theory that tries to limit space really is. There will never be a center of the universe discovered that could be positively identified as the center of the entire universe.

INCOME TAX FACTS

NO. 18

Persons engaged in business sustain losses by the theft of goods or automobiles, or the accidental destruction of machinery or other property. As such losses are part of the hazards of a business, they are recognized by the income-tax law as property deductible from gross income, provided they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Deductible losses fall within the three following classes:

(1) If incurred in trade or business; or (2) if incurred in any transaction entered into for profit thereof not connected with the trade or business; or (3) if property not connected with the trade or business, if the loss arises from fire, storms, shipwreck, or other casualty, or from theft.

A person who buys an automobile to be used for business purposes and sells it at a loss has had a deductible loss falling within class 1. The taxpayer's neighbor bought an automobile to be used for pleasure only and sustained a loss when he sold it. As his loss does not fall within any of the three classes indicated, it is not deductible. This taxpayer, however, bought securities and sold them at a loss. Although not engaged in the business of selling and buying securities, his loss is deductible, as it falls within class 2. Another neighbor bought an automobile to be used for pleasure, which was stolen. The loss is deductible, as it falls within class 3. Falling within class 3 also is a loss sustained by a taxpayer whose home is destroyed by fire or whose summer bungalow is damaged by storm.

While losses by theft or burglary are deductible if they are established as the property—jewelry, for example—actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen, misplaced or lost from his person, the claim would not be allowed.

TWO-WAY PATHS

Arthur, the best pie baker on the entire North American continent, deserted the culinary department of the Stylus club, a year ago, with the idea of faring afield, picking himself off a new set of laurels, and revamping the old bank roll.

Last week he resumed his place at the waffle-iron in the Stylus club kitchen. Everyone was glad to see him. The only gloom attending his return was the thought that Fortune had not favored him in foray afield. When a man quits the Old Job to better himself and after a brief interlude has to find his way back—well, it's too bad, that's all.

EACH TO HIS CALLING

A lot of New York doctors, seeking rest and recreation, paint pictures. Each year, for the last five years, they've been getting the canvases together at the Medical Society rooms and holding what they call an "exhibit."

There are 233 pictures in the show this season—each one a reminder that it's just as well the Big Pill and Prescription men didn't go in for painting, as a life work.

THOUGHTS FOR A WARDEN

Remember "Frank Merriwell?"

Gilbert Patten, the original and only genuine Burt L. Standish, author of the Merriwell books, started to write them about 36 years ago. He's now the head of a publishing concern. There are at present 273 Merriwell books, including the Juniors. The entire series is reprinted every two years and each title sells 35,000 to 40,000 on each printing, at 15 cents each.

Patten is a snow-haired man with big, childish eyes and looks for all the world like a rather old-fashioned rural preacher.

He says he never heard of a criminal who read Frank Merriwell, though hordes of reputable citizens tell him they have read them.

ACHIEVEMENT!

One of the most versatile men in town is Walter B. Pitkin, the psychologist, who lectures on journalism at Columbia.

Walter could hold any one of a hundred jobs and has held no less than 40.

A long time ago he learned to make himself deaf to city noise, to shut himself off, in a little island of his own work; and he learned early that to fulfill any one of his many dreams, he would have to work very hard.

Pitkin doesn't suggest any given formula for achievement, to any man. He sets for himself only the "important task of the discovery, encouragement and training of the several million young people who give promise of future high achievement."

The ordinary man, he says, can achieve nothing except by luck. There is no point in teaching him anything.

OFFICIAL DILIGENCE

Talking about achievement: The official dog catcher in Nassau county, Long Island, made $17,780 last year by diligently following his bent. That's $2,760 more than either the district attorney of Nassau or the county treasurer earned, over a like period.

"I mind my own business and work hard," he says. Any man who bags 341 wayward Bone Polishers a week, must keep his mind on the race. The least distraction, and that would be the end of him.

Helen Hayes says she wants her little datter to believe in Santa Claus.

Fair enough.

Looks like old Charlie MacArthur is going to go to work, at last.

The little fellow who received a sled for Christmas probably figures now that Santa Claus didn't display very good judgment.—The Sioux Falls Daily Argus-Leader.

Evidence Gleaned By Wickersham Board Is Placed Before Senate

"The Evidence" Proves As Paradoxical As Report, —Opinions Differ

Colonel Woodcock Gives Home-Brewing Left-Handed Endorsement

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Two packing cases bulging with "the evidence" upon which the Wickersham report based its amazing conclusions on prohibition were in the hands of the Senate today.

The evidence, or that part of it which the commission dared not care to make public, proved as paradoxical and conflicting as the report of the commission itself. It ranged all the way from testimony that prohibition is a grand success to testimony that it is an absolute failure, and it was gleaned from persons in many walks of life.

Of all the thousands and thousands of words, probably the most important were those of Col. Amos W. Woodcock, prohibition enforcement director in the administration's new enforcement set-up under the department of justice.

"Home Option"
Col. Woodcock candidly admitted that home-brewing and home-wine-making violates the spirit of the prohibition law, but he saw no way of overcoming it, and, in fact, he gave home-brewing a sort of left-handed endorsement. He endorsed it because he saw no way of adequately enforcing the law against it.

"Home option" was the phrase used by the prohibition director in describing the policy he believed best calculated to apply to the situation. Under "home option" those who want beer and wine may make and have them, and those who don't want them don't have to have them.

The law prohibits all forms of liquor can no more be enforced against the home-owner or home-brewer, Woodcock suggested, than can the laws against gambling be enforced to prohibit a game of bridge or penny-ante in the home—that is, without creating such a storm that the whole structure might be swept away on a wave of public indignation.

Presents Theory
In presenting his theory, Col. Woodcock said:

"I suggest, in reasoning with has much of sophistry but a gleam of common sense and of prophecy of what may be the final evolution of this troublesome question, not state, not country or district option, but home option."

"Any of the other plans of settlement leaves a troublesome and die-hard minority. Home option, about the same as individual opinion, eliminates the minority."

"If a citizen possesses liquor, or makes liquor in his home, and in such way as not be observed by the public, and if he properly supports his family, this policy would require that he be not disturbed."

"If he fails in a single public duty, if he breaks the peace in any way, if he fails to take care of his family, if he fails to keep himself fit to perform any public duty, the state steps in and punishes."

Cannot Prohibit
"This plan makes unlawful all commerce in liquor does not compel the dry to support a state dispensary, leaves the wet in the full enjoyment of any right which he believes he has, which may be exercised without affecting anyone else."

"The courts and agents ought not to be expected to prevent the making of liquor in the home for non-commercial purposes. They ought not to be expected to stop the consumption of such liquors any more than the courts and police are expected to stop a game of bridge in a private home, with no commercial aspect."

"This conception is a confession that prohibition cannot prohibit." Whether Attorney General Mitchell and other cabinet officers who appeared before the committee endorse Woodcock's solution of the problem, was not disclosed.

Nowhere in the young library of documents and transcripts of testimony was there any that quoted Mitchell. He appeared before the commission several times, but his views were given in confidence, and the commission withheld them, along with a mass of other testimony that Judge Wm. S. Kenyon, referred to in its individual report a month ago as so startling in its bearing on graft and corruption that a congressional investigation was warranted.

Four specific recommendations were made by Col. Woodcock aimed at the promotion of better cooperation between the states and the federal government.

Opinions Given
1. A law making it an offense for anyone to withhold knowledge of a felony.
2. A financial subsidy to the states from the federal government "conditioned upon their bringing their law enforcement agencies to a certain standard."

3. A direct payment to state officials for each successful prosecution.
4. A special staff in each enforcement district to make investigations and to lay evidence before the local prosecuting agencies.

Some of these suggestions, if carried out, he admitted, might be conducive to abuses. Apparently the commission was of the same opinion, for it incorporated none of them in its report.

Col. Woodcock's suggestions to make home-brewing legally respectable had the endorsement of Major Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, and now general counsel for the California vineyardists who are engaged in a national campaign of selling grape concentrates which, if let alone, nature turns into wine in the home.

Mrs. Willebrandt told the commission that Congress intended to especially exempt the home-owner from prosecution for allowing his fruit juices to become stronger than the one-half of one per cent allowed under the Volstead Act. She did not explain, however, why, then, Congress arbitrarily set the limit of legal alcoholic content at one-half of one per cent.

Different Views
A totally different view was taken by James J. Britt, former general counsel of the prohibition unit.

Judge Britt thought that section 29 of the Volstead Act, under which Mrs. Willebrandt thought home-brewing, ought to be radically revised. He believed it out of line with the spirit of the constitution.

Included in the voluminous mass of testimony were statements by labor leaders, educators, manufacturers, industrialists, bankers, sociologists and many others—all revealing a vast conflict of opinions as to whether the law is desirable, whether it is enforceable, and varying widely as to prevalent conditions.

Also included were the results of surveys in 32 of the 48 states. Why there were only 32 was not explained. The Senate probably will do nothing with the report except to read it at its individual leisure, and extract from it such evidence as it desires to bolster individual arguments for and against prohibition.

From that standpoint, the evidence will be dribbled into the Congressional record, bit by bit, for many months to come.

Both the wets and the dries can find plenty in it to support their positions.

Many Red Cross Chapters Exceed Quotas In Fund

Close To Nine Million Dollars Now Raised In Drought Relief Campaign

With the National Red Cross Drought Relief fund at the $8,759,000 mark on Thursday, chapters throughout the nation which had not yet reached their quotas were urged to renew their efforts during the coming week to attain the goal established for them.

An interesting feature of the report sent the local chapter yesterday, was the fact that 137 chapters in the eastern states have exceeded their original quotas, making a total of 650 for the country as a whole.

Of the sections reporting, the Midwestern area was nearing $2,000,000 toward the goal. In addition, that area reported 74 additional carloads of food donated, making a total of 398 carloads, aggregating 16 million pounds from central and western states alone.

Relief is being extended in Oklahoma by 58 Red Cross Chapters, serving 3,432 volunteers. Among the beneficiaries, it is stated are 1,581 Indian families.

Surprise Program Features Evening At Third Church

The members of the Men's class of the Third United Presbyterian church provided themselves royal entertainers Friday evening when they had their wives, sweethearts and members of the Y. L. B. class as special guests.

A splendid crowd filled the church parlors and the session quartet pleased with several selections, after which the surprise of the evening came when Griff Lewis and Jack O'Neill appeared before the group as two colored boys and seated themselves before a radio and as they turned the dial from station to station, out in person came the radio characters.

First there was the Little German band, which was directed by Gilbert Colnot, and the antics of the band members as well as the music received plenty of applause. Next there were the well known characters, Amos and Andy, portrayed by D. C. Brown and Roy McCown, and Andy's "sitiatins" and "propolitions" brought forth peal after peal of laughter.

Hawaiian guitar duets were furnished by Frank Candioto and Walter Earl; John Kirker and David Jones sang special numbers and during the evening the Y. P. C. U. orchestra, under the leadership of Watson Wilson, furnished the musical numbers.

The men further demonstrated their ability as hosts when they served a most delicious lunch, which closed an evening of rare entertainment.

Liberty at 3:31 this afternoon. At Tyrone the party would detain and go by automobile to Rockview.

As Irene and Dague left, a thousand or more people crowded around the jail seeking a vantage point to get one last look at the famous pair. For newspaper men and news cameramen the departure was the end of a sleepless vigil that had lasted since Thursday noon.

As Howard Kelley, driving the car containing Irene and Dague swung out into Court street, several newspaper cars followed after him, determined to trail the party until it landed in Rockview prison.

Prisoners Sing Hymns

Shortly before they left, the prisoners on both floors of the county jail put on a short service. Up on the second floor, the women sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "In The Garden." As they finished, the men on the first floor sang "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow."

As they sang, Dague stood in the corner, chin erect, apparently ready to carry on to the bitter end, without any signs of weakness. His spiritual adviser, Rev. H. O. Teagarden did not accompany the party.

One other car made the trip to Rockview today, but not in the wake of the prison party. This car contained John Schroeder, brother-in-law of Irene, and her aged father Joseph Crawford. All his emotion has been spent, his eyes were tearless, and he seemed just a broken old man, who was going through his own Chessman.

He had little to say. "Defectively he said, 'I want to be out there with Irene and we're going. Goodbye.'"

"There is nothing we can say now," said Mr. Schroeder. "We will come back to New Castle Monday and pick up little Donnie and then go on to West Virginia. Irene has not broken down."

Donnie Says Goodbye
Early today, little Donnie Schroeder, five year old son of Irene, said his last goodbye to his mother. Bright beyond his years, the awful import of this last goodbye seemed to be beyond his comprehension and he bade her a cheery goodbye as she kissed the little fellow for the last time. Tears were in her eyes, but she did not collapse.

Some of the women prisoners in the jail were affected as Irene passed out of their sight. "Goodbye Irene was shouted by them. 'Goodbye honey, goodbye Angelina' Irene called as she entered the garage to be put into the automobile.

It was the last time the Gun Girl and her paramour would ride together. On their road they passed over the spot on the Butler road where on December 27th, 1929 they murdered Corporal Brady Paul and wounded Private Ernest Moore. Still further in Butler they would pass the stores where earlier on that same day they bound and gagged Wish Angert in his own store, and bound and gagged an aged customer who interrupted their banditry.

Arrive This Afternoon

Sometime this afternoon Irene and Dague will arrive in Rockview. The great prison gate will swing back to receive them, the automobile will drive up to the Death House door, and they will be placed in the Death Cells, there to wait for seven o'clock Monday morning when Executioner Robert Elliott, acting for the people of Pennsylvania, will carry out the provisions of their sentences. "That force of electricity be passed through body in sufficient strength to cause death."

The ride over the mountains of Pennsylvania today is the next to the last link in the long chain of legalities that brought them from the exposition. A fashion revue will be put on each evening of the show under the management of the New Castle Dry Goods Company, and in addition, there will be many novel features.

Work of getting the two dining rooms and dance hall in readiness for the show will be started on Monday, and by Wednesday evening, all the cars will be in place in readiness for the show to start.

The price of admission for adults has been lowered this year, which is expected to result in increased attendance.

Claims Fifteen Million Motorists Have Poor Eyesight

Survey Shows Great Number of Motorists Have Defective Vision

In connection with a series of surveys on the need for universal adoption of driver's license laws, Ralph W. Bolsinger, president of the National Automobile Association, Mr. Bolsinger pointed out that of the 32,000,000 operators of motor vehicles in the country, more than 15,000,000 have defective sight.

"Fifteen per cent of all drivers," he asserted, "or 4,800,000 need eyeglasses, eight per cent or 2,560,000 should be given restricted licenses, permitting them to drive only when wearing glasses, and one per cent or 320,000 should be denied the right to drive entirely because of poor vision."

"The importance of this condition is clearly seen when it is realized that only fifty-two per cent or 16,640,000 of all drivers possess perfect eyesight."

The A. A. club executive here asserted that this is only one of many conditions which clearly show the need of universal adoption of driver's license laws.

"Under such laws, the operator is required to prove his ability, both mental and physical to drive a motor vehicle," he added.

"With the number of motor fatalities mounting from year to year, it is of vital importance that the states without licensing laws enact them at the forthcoming sessions of the legislatures."

Allot Spaces For Auto Show

Final Arrangements Are Made At Meeting Of Dealers Last Evening

Other Cities Will Cooperate In Making Coming Exhibition Successful

Spaces were drawn by members of the New Castle Automobile Dealers Association, at their meeting held in the Elks club last evening, when final arrangements for the big show to be held on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, February 26, 27, and 28, were completed.

It was announced by Manager Ray F. Hall this morning, that all the accessory spaces had been taken and present indications point to one of the most successful shows ever held by the local Association.

There will be 62 cars in the big show which opens Thursday, practically every make of car which is sold in the city, having been entered in the show.

Representatives of the local Association have visited Beaver Falls, Butler, and Sharon, and have been assured of the whole-hearted support of these associations in the local show. Window cards have been distributed in these cities and assurance have been received that delegations from these cities will be present to attend the show.

One of the big features of the exhibition will be the entertainment offered, both afternoon and evening during the exposition. A fashion revue will be put on each evening of the show under the management of the New Castle Dry Goods Company, and in addition, there will be many novel features.

Work of getting the two dining rooms and dance hall in readiness for the show will be started on Monday, and by Wednesday evening, all the cars will be in place in readiness for the show to start.

Strikers Force Workers To Quit

Crowd of 150 Textile Strikers Crash Gates and "Clean Out Plant"

(International News Service)
LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 21.—Crashing through the gates of the Wood mill of the American Woolen company, a crowd of 150 textile strikers and their sympathizers today rushed into the power plant, threw off the power switch, cut the power belts and swept into the street before them 2,500 operatives who had not joined the walk-out.

The "raid" on the wood mill was similar to the method used in clearing the mills at the time of the 1912 strike.

Police were called but there were no clashes as the mnl operatives left their work in orderly fashion.

Miss Edith Berkman of San Francisco, organizer of the National Textile Workers' Union, who has been at the head of the strike, was not seen at Wood mill today.

FLOWERS MAY BE CULTIVATED AND ENJOYED INDOORS AS WELL AS OUT

The person who loves plants and flowers but does not have a garden may cultivate and enjoy this hobby indoors as well as out. You may start your plants from seed in suitable compost and container. To make the compost, mix together through a quarter-inch sieve equal parts of mellow garden loam, peat moss and sharp sand. Prepare the containers by putting in the bottom a layer of drainage material half an inch in thickness. For the tiny seeds use earthenware, for the larger ones wooden boxes. A pan to grow fine seed is pictured below, center. Control moisture at the surface of the soil by keeping the seed pan covered with a pane of glass, and watering from the bottom by setting the container in a pan of water. Seedlings must be transplanted when they begin to be crowded, as at right. New plants from old may be obtained for the indoor garden by cuttings.

At left below are slips from, top, dusty miller; second row, rose, fuchsia; below, left to right, pelargonium, coleus, geranium. Above, left, cuttings that have formed roots. The one at the left is not quite ready to be repotted; that at the right is ready for a larger pot.

Early Emigrants To Pennsylvania Mostly Old Swiss Families

Discover Passenger Lists Of Early Immigrants From The Palatinate

Rough Comparison Of Names Of "Who's Who" Of Today Is Shown

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—Correct pedigrees of thousands of American families have been made possible through the discovery of new passenger lists of palatinate emigrants to Pennsylvania during the eighteenth century by Professor Hermann F. Macco, noted genealogist and historian of the Hoover family.

In most cases the emigrants belonged to former Swiss families, who emigrated to the Palatinate after the peasant revolution in 1641-53, but were driven from their new homes through the French invasion during the reign of Louis XIV.

Pennsylvania wonderland. Pennsylvania for them was the wonderland, where they expected to enjoy religious and personal freedom and would be freed from the heavy burdens of war tributes and taxation.

When, in the course of years, emigration increased to an extent that the authorities prohibited it altogether, the emigrants fled from their villages at the risk of their lives and wandered down the Rhine valley until they reached Rotterdam Harbor, an important emigration port. Often they had to wait for weeks until they could embark for America.

A rough comparison with names contained in the latest American "Who's Who" showed that the newly discovered passengers and emigration lists contain the following names of American families:

Agne (Agnew), Andrie, Baum, Bayer (Boyer), Bruckner, Bossart, Bartholmes, Buffel, Bruyn (Brown), Diehl (Deal), Draxel, Falk, Fleck, Fesler, Frick, Frey, Fuchs, Fisch (Fish), Fischer, Gebhard (Kephardt), Gerhard, Gerlach, Goebel, Graff, Gutt (Good), Grun (Green), German, Haas, Hagart (Haggard), Hill, Hoffman, Huber, Hoff, Keck, Kiefer, Kolb, Kress, Kelper (Keller), Kettering (Kettering) Lang, Linn, Lutz, May, Maurer, Muller, Reinhardt, Ridder, Roos, Ross, Severe, Schmeltzer, Schwartz, Schwalder, Stadler, Stout, Stutz, Treiber, Trautmann, Wideman (Whiteman), Zimmermann.

Upon examination at the hospital, it was found she had fractured her skull and her pelvic bone was broken in three places.

Father Of Our Country Is Still Inspiration To Youth—Dr. Myers

Washington's Attitude Toward His Mother, His Family
And Countrymen Altogether Admirable

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.,
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

The Father of Our Country is still an inspiration to children and their parents.

Although the cherry tree story may be a myth, the attitude of George Washington toward his mother and his own family, toward his fellow countrymen, and theirs, in turn, toward him, are strong evidence of his remarkable integrity.

We admire him for his vision while still a youth, for his systematic mode of self-improvement, self-education, for his industry, and for his extraordinary will power. Always he had definite plans in private and in public life. Nothing small or large could turn him from his plans once he felt sure that he was right. Perhaps no American has ever met with so many discouragements and difficulties as he did in public life. Certainly none ever rose so victoriously above them.

George Washington did not stoop to do or say small things. He was a model of poise, graciousness and dignity.

One of the most beautiful things of his life was his visit to his old mother just before entering office as the first president of the United States.

The Literary Digest for May 10, 1930, carried on its front cover a reproduction of the painting by Ferris of "Washington's Farewell to His Mother (1789)".

Mr. Ferris has written:

"An affecting scene ensued. The son remembered the ravages which disease had made upon the aged frame of his mother, and address her with these words: 'The people, madame, have been pleased to elect me to the Chief Magistracy of the United States, but before I can assume the functions of my office I have come to bid you an affectionate farewell.
So soon as the weight of public business which must necessarily attend the outset of a new government can be disposed of, I shall hasten to Virginia and—here the matron interrupted with—'And you will see me no more; my great age and disease warn me that I shall not be long for this world; I trust in God that I may be somewhat prepared for a better. But go, George, fulfill the high destinies which heaven appears to have intended for you;'

go, my son, and may heaven's and a mother's blessing be with you always.'

"Her hand was laid upon his bowed head, and the great man's frame trembled while a sob burst from his breast, for already he saw the shadow upon her.

"When Washington rose to go,
she went with him to the door,
leaning fondly upon his arm, and stood upon the threshold to repeat a last adieu."

Let us at this time encourage our older children to read the life of George Washington, and tell the younger ones about him. Let us talk about this great man at the dinner table. The children will find great amusement and enlightenment in enumerating the conveniences we today enjoy which George Washington and his parents never knew about.

Nevertheless, the problems of conduct of right and wrong, of character, indeed, are not fundamentally different.

Proper Diet Essential For Health Of Teeth

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
DENTAL CARIES (decay) occurs most frequently from the ages of 7 to 20.

That fact is worth considerable attention. Casual reflection would probably result in the belief that disease of the teeth occurred largely in middle age. Older people have their own difficulties with their teeth. The teeth structures tend to atrophy as time goes on—the gums recede, the sockets are not as strong as formerly—but decay of the surface of the teeth is much more characteristic of young life than old.
In fact, it may be said that if we can start people out in life with good sound teeth, the surface is likely to endure for a lifetime. It is not quite true of the teeth that if you save the surface you save all, but it helps a lot.

In doing so just as much depends on what happens to the teeth from inside as from the outside. We have been warned, and properly, about the things that candy and other soft foods will do to the teeth, but the fact remains that if the general body nutrition is such as to make good, hard teeth, they will stand an awful lot of punishment from outside. The teeth are part of the body, and what the blood brings them is just as important for their health and development as what the waitress brings them.

Recent studies on different groups of children indicate that diet is far more efficacious than "dental hygiene" in preventing caries. Children who were given a diet of milk, green vegetables and fruit in preponderance, and who were also supervised in the daily use of an antiseptic mouth wash, had only 5 or 6 per cent of active dental caries. In a control group in which no special supervision of the diet was attempted, but who were made to practice mouth antisepsis, showed 50 per cent with active dental caries. In still another group the proper diet was administered, but no mouth wash was used; and only 6 per cent

had active dental caries at the end of the observation period.

Such observations have to be taken, in my opinion, with a grain of salt, or at least a grain of explanation. Certainly it would be unwise from a study of these experiments to decide to leave your children from the prophylactic rites of oral hygiene and banish the tooth brush.

They do indicate, however, the great dependence of teeth on the diet for the proper development of their hardness and resistance.

Milk, especially, is to be recommended in large quantities for this purpose. It contains a large amount of calcium which goes into the structure of the teeth and also other substances which appear to be needed for their proper petrification.

In regions of the earth—primitive dairying and cow-herding regions such as the Punjab of India, where the natives are accustomed to drink as much as a gallon of milk daily throughout their lives—it is by no means uncommon to find a set of perfect teeth in the mouths of men and women over 80 years of age. A dental authority recently said that every child should consume at least a quart of milk a day in order to secure the minerals which are essential to proper bone and tooth development.

Two Slayings Are Hanged To Death In West Virginia

Emery Stevens, 24, And William Claude Adams, 40, Are Put To Death

CURTAIN USED TO SCREEN GALLOWES

(International News Service) MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 21.—With the attendant innovation of a curtain which was drawn across the gallows, two convicted slayers had paid with their lives today in a double execution at the West Virginia penitentiary here.

Emery Stevens, 24 and William Claude Adams, 40, mounted the gallows last night side by side. The trap was sprung, sending both of them to their death by hanging, exactly at 9 o'clock. Stevens was pronounced dead 11½ minutes later and Adams one minute after him.

As the doomed men were led up the steps, a curtain, for the first time in the history of executions in the prison here, was drawn across the men, screening them from the view of the witnesses. However, they had taken their places on the trap before the curtain was drawn and a view permitted spectators and witnesses. The pair went to their fates calmly and without visible signs of fear.

The delayed execution came after a reprieve had been granted each man. The original date set for the hanging was January 23. Stevens was convicted of the shooting of Leonard Ooten, a taxi driver, near Williamson, W. Va., Oct. 2, 1930. Adams fatally shot his wife, her mother and his wife's aunt at Cinderella, W. Va., last October 1.

WASHINGTON EXTOLLED IN TALK AT ANNUAL J. O. U. A. M. BANQUET

The human qualities so well exemplified by George Washington, the father of his country, have a parallel in the humanitarian work conducted by the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, Joseph Beaverson, past state councilor of the order declared in an address at the eighth annual Washington Day banquet of Castle Council No. 365, J. O. U. A. M. in the Croton M. E. church dining hall Friday evening.

Beaverson, the principal speaker at the annual event, spoke on the life and accomplishments of Washington, brought out the high qualities of the great man whose task of bringing victory to the 13 colonies required great military strategy. The speaker lauded the patriotic character of the order and its work to commemorate the heroes of America.

Beaverson also included in his address a description of the work done by the order in maintaining the great orphan home in Tiffin, O., where over 1,000 children from 24 states are housed.

About 150 members of the order and their friends attended the banquet. W. F. Shippe, pastor councilor of Castle Council, was toastmaster. "Patriotism" was the subject of the talk by Rev. Clifford S. Joshua, pastor of the Croton M. E. church. Rev. Joshua, the first speaker to be called by the toastmaster explained the value and importance of patriotism and added that he had become an American by choice. Rev. Joshua was born in Wales.

Rev. Mrs. Margaret M. Joshua, the wife of the pastor, herself a minister, gave an analysis of the excellent training given in the J. O. U. A. M. orphan's home, adding that no case of moral delinquency has been known in the home for many years.

Two good readings were presented by Miss Marian Shaffer.

The Mountain Boys, Wallace and McCormick, entertained with musical selections.

Beaverson, the principal speaker at the banquet helped to organize the New Castle council in 1922.

Judge Hands Down Order Reducing Stock Valuation

Stock Held By Miss Marie McGinley Is Reduced $7.00 By Order Of Court

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21.—Valuation of the stock of the West Penn Steel Company, formerly of Brackenridge, held by Miss Marie McGinley, daughter of the late John McGinley, (CQ) an executive of the company, was reduced $7 a share in a final decree handed down by Judge Elder W. Marshall on file in common pleas court today.

The jurist's ruling is applicable to all other stockholders who contested the company's merger with Allegheny Steel Company.

Under a plan by which West Penn shareholders were to receive 7 1-2 Allegheny shares for each West Penn share. The two companies were merged May 6, 1929. Holders of 2,182 shares, including the McGinley estate which held 897 shares refused to surrender their stock. Suits were filed in equity and the court was asked to fix the valuation of the West Penn stock.

The Allegheny company filed exceptions to Judge Marshall's ruling last November when the valuation was fixed at $428 a share.

It was stated that the $421 valuation is still considerably in advance over the value fixed by the merger plan.

Close Revival Sunday Evening At Hoover Heights

Nearly every seat was taken last evening at the Revival service being held at the Hoover Heights Tabernacle, Morris street. With much vigor the congregation sang the old time songs, Rev. T. J. Keegan, assisting with the slide trombone. Rev. Keegan also played several selections on the piano accordion and the musical saw. He sang several choruses and the hymn "Jesus Is Tenderly Calling Today." These were all very well received and much appreciated.

Rev. Frank B. Collitt, the evangelist, brought another capable sermon on the subject "Answered Prayer."

This evening it is expected that the quartet from the Gospel Tabernacle, Pearson street will be present to sing. There will also be some friends from the People's Mission taking part in the musical program, and it is possible that John Patton will be present to give some violin selections. Tomorrow morning the young ladies quartet will sing and at the evening service Mrs. John Wink and Mrs. L. A. Rigby will sing. Turkey Hen Makes Egg Laying Record

Clarence Staph of Wampum, is the owner of a youthful Turkey hen, who has established an egg laying record that will be hard to beat. In the first place, the ordinary young Turkey hen does not start to lay eggs until March or April or in other words in the early spring following its maturity. This turkey hen started laying the last of January and up until yesterday had laid an egg a day for twenty-three consecutive days. Mr. Staph plans to have the eggs hatched and increase the number of this fine egg laying strain of turkeys.

Mr. Staph won the turkey in a shooting match at Youngstown last Thanksgiving time and deciding to keep it, put it in with other turkeys in his possession. It has proven such a good producer of eggs that it is probable that it will be some time before it graces a dinner table.

Alumnae Girls Win From New Castle

Game Is Played As Preliminary To High School Game Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 21.—The fans in the Lincoln gymnasium were given a complete surprise last night, besides a real treat, as they witnessed the Ellwood Alumnae defeat the New Castle Alumnae in an exciting game by a 28-17 score.

It was formerly planned to have the preliminary game to the Ellwood-Zelenople contest be played between the varsity sextette and the alumnae, but Coach Helen Cooper had complete negotiations to entertain the New Castle alumnae at the "eleventh hour." This contest was just like old times—nearly the same teams that battled on the court for their dear old alma mater three and four years ago. For New Castle there appeared Ponion, Douthette and Patton at their favorite positions, forward; Kaufman and McGrath at center; Clark at side center, and Cowmeadow and Means at guard. The high school faculty had started the game first, but after the period was well on its way was replaced by the Ellwood alumnae. That incomparable pair, Blazin and Thompson, were at forwards; Cooper at center; Stier at side center and Caplan and Ross at guards. A coincidence occurred that Miss Caplan again guarded Miss Douthette as in the New Castle game here just recently, when the red and black maidens were defeated.

The usual rivalry was shown as the two teams struggled to obtain victory. The visitors had scored first and were in front, 6-5 at the end of the first quarter. Finally the fray and had gotten started. New Castle maidens were behind by a 15-7 score, being held to one point at the close of the first half. Coming out strong again in the third quarter, the Ellwood sextette continued to outscore the invaders, 7-1, and the period ended with a 22-8 score in their favor. The visitors had attempted a rally in the final period, but it was to no avail. The Ellwood alumnae was outscored, 9-6, in the final stanza, but the score stood in their favor, 28-17, at the close of the game.

Ellwood High Wins Game From Zelenople Five

Revamped Lineup Takes Contest Last Night By 31-24 Score

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 21.—Evidently the revamped lineup did not affect the Ellwood City High School passers as they defeated Zelenople 31-24 in a fine game. Considering that three regulars were absent from the lineup the locals made a very good showing for the first time, with the new players.

It became apparent that Zelenople was much improved since their previous encounter. In the initial period the teams seemed to alternate in scoring and a result, it ended in a deadlock at 7 all. Nesbitt of the visitors scored first via the free throw line and then the boys began taking turns about in counting points for their respective teams.

At the opening whistle of the second period the locals started with a rush and registered three from the court before the invaders could locate the hoops again. With a tightening up of the Ellwood defense the Zelenople lads could only get 4 points while the home team accumulated 10. Ellwood held a commanding lead of 17-11 at the half-way mark. Apparently not satisfied with their showing the Inglenmen came back strong again in the ensuing period and proceeded to outscore the visitors again 11-6 and increase their lead by 1 more point at the close of the period, score 28-17.

The final stanza was marked with much closer guarding by both quintets. The Tubers in this quarter had to resort to defensive tactics to prevent a threatened rally by the visitors. They were held to 3 points while Zelenople accounted for 7 in this last period making the final score at 31-24 for the Ellwood passers.

Cloak and Kennedy were the outstanding performers for the locals, although everybody entering the game contributed his share. Young, Nesbitt, and Smith were the best bets for the losers.

Lineup:

Kennedy F Nesbitt

Unpardonable Sin Is Subject

Large Crowd Hears Dr. Peacock Speak on Subject Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 21.—There will be an overwhelming congregation at the Sunday services of the union revivals according to indications last night as Dr. Luther K. Peacock addressed those present.

Dr. Peacock, as was planned spoke on the subject of "The Unpardonable Sin." The speaker spoke frankly on this and straight into the heart of the congregation. Murder, crime, desertion and many other things may be forgiven by God but blasphemy against the "Holy Spirit" is the Unpardonable Sin. This is the disdaining spirit of God. Dr. Peacock told of instances of people who sinned against God and of how dangerous it is to resist the will of God.

At the beginning of the services Dr. Peacock had unexpectedly called upon a trio of ministers to sing for the congregation. The Reverends H. D. Maxwell, Arthur M. Stevenson and C. Z. Bell the ones chosen had difficulty in getting started, but after the second attempt things went smoothly. A solo was rendered by James I. Croft at this time.

Rev. Stevenson was chairman at this occasion and the scripture was read by Rev. Bell and a prayer lead by Rev. H. D. K. Huber.

Services will continue this evening as usual at 7:30.

In this country the average worker spends only 30 per cent of his earnings for food and 70 per cent for comforts.

THE MAN WHO PAYS

The will to pay is hereditary, just as much as red hair or buck teeth. It is common fallacy that a man pays his debts because he has money. This is not necessarily true. On the contrary, the matter of paying has only a remote relation to money.

There are fellows with an abundance of money, who have to be cajoled into paying the most ordinary debt.

And there is the poor fellow without a visible dollar—you know him—who is Johnny on the invoice. Money has little to do with either case. It is the breed of the man.

The man who pays is the bulwark of society. He is the balance wheel of civilization. He is the mainspring of commerce. Business blesses him and he has honor among men for all time.

LAKE CHAMPLAIN NOW BECAME OF GREAT STRATEGIC IMPORTANCE TO BOTH SIDES, FOR THAT GREAT BODY OF WATER OFFERED THE EASIEST AND MOST DIRECT ROUTE FROM THE ST. LAWRENCE TO THE HUDSON.

(Special to The News)
BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 21.—For the fifth consecutive year the New Castle high school basketball team will be among the schoolboys quintets battling for honors in the annual W. P. I. A. A. floor tournament, which gets under way next week. On Friday night on the Butler high floor a "championship like" New Castle high five won a well-deserved victory over a smooth and fighting Butler high team. The final count was 21-16.

The "titular" contest saw the Butler team grab off an early lead when the first half of the game was a foul shooting contest, a total of 20 misses being chalked up against the two combatants. After Shaffer missed a foul for New Castle, Reiber gave the red and black clad boys a one-point lead when he sank one out of two fouls.

Defenses Work Well.
Both teams made desperate tries to break through the cunning defense their opponents presented. Wolfgang gave the Soap Miners a small lead when he made a pretty shot from mid-court. Fitzmartin piled up another marker when he made one out of two fouls. Small but mighty Johnny Uram grabbed a sweet pass and dribbled through the Butler team for a pretty goal that tied the contest at 3 all.

After Fitzmartin missed a foul for Butler, Nick Uram stepped up to the charity line and made good a foul to give the New Castle representatives a one-point advantage. J. Uram accounted for another foul for New Castle.

The quarter ended 5-3, with New Castle on top. This quarter was featured by the good defense of the two teams presented. Both quintets played their close guarding game and shots were scarce.

The second period proved another fast one with both teams making attempts to seize the lead. Reiber made good one foul out of two as the second quarter got under way. Keck brought a closer situation when he annexed two fouls to place his team behind one point, 6-5. This same Keck, Butler's premier forward, tied the game when he came through with another foul.

New Castle continued its fast passing in the hope of catching the Butler boys off guard. An opportunity came when Lasky, lanky New Castle center, was open under the basket. Andy snatched a pass from one of his team mates and rang in a double decker to place his team on top 8-6. This lead did not last long as Keck came through with two fouls in rapid order to tie the game for the second time this quarter. N. Uram caged a foul to give New Castle a 9-8 lead as the whistle blew. This half proved a foul shooting contest with New Castle scoring five points from the charity line while Butler scored six.

Third Quarter.
In the third quarter the two teams came out strong, determined to win. After Keck missed a foul for Butler, J. Uram made his free toss good to give New Castle a 10-8 lead. Shaffer was fouled twice and he made both tries good to place the Coach Bridenbaugh lads on top by four points. Laboune for Butler made a pretty dribble through the New Castle defense for a field goal to place Butler behind 12-10.

Jimmy Shaffer scored a bucket near the foul line on a pivot to place New Castle four points ahead.

Lasky made one of two fouls count. At this time Little replaced Kozak for Butler. Fitzmartin was fouled and managed to make the try count. Shortly after this, Keck dribbled around for a field goal under the basket to cut their opponents lead down to two points at 15-13.

The third quarter ended here. So far the game had proven a real floor contest and it was evident that the final chapter would prove a thriller as both teams prepared to show all they had in hopes of coming thorough in the final period.

Butler's chance of victory was demolished when Keck was ruled out of the game via the four personal fouls method. So far this had proven to be one of Butler's main reasons for having put up such a contest. Mintz replaced him. Reiber made good his foul try to give New Castle a three-point margin.

Reiber was ousted out of the contest too through the four personal foul rule method for New Castle. Hanlon was injected into the fray. Fitzmartin made the contest more interesting when he sank in a two pointer on a follow up shot. The score was now 16-15. Nick Uram demonstrated his coolness amidst a thunder of noise when he stepped up to the charity line to sink two fouls. Shaffer, who so far had played one of the best games of his career, practically clinched the game for New Castle when he rang in his second field goal as New Castle led 21-15.

John Uram was thrown out of the game through the four foul rule. Ostrosky replaced him. As Uram left the floor he was greeted with a big ovation for the exhibition he had given. Wolfgang annexed a foul for Butler to give the losers their 16th point. There remained a short time to play and New Castle fiddled with the ball during the remaining time. The final score was 21-16. The victory was a well-deserved one for New Castle.

The tilt marked the 17th straight victory for the Coach Bridenbaugh machine this season. By virtue of the victory the Tin City cagers are the 1930-31 champions of Section Three and will represent this district in the schoolboy tourney. A victory for Butler would have given it a tie for the sectional honors.

Butler gave New Castle the hardest battle of the season and the red and black boys were extended to win. The Heinerman coached machine proved every bit a tough opponent and should be complimented for the brand of ball they played. New Castle will now start preparing for the tournament. The red and black clad boys meet Ambridge high in the first round. The date has not as yet been set.

No Stars.
There were no stars for New Castle last night. The entire quintet played like it never did this season. Nick Uram and Reiber at guards played an excellent game. Few shots did their opponents score.

Andy Lasky at center time and again outjumped Wolfgang. Butler's pivot man. Along with this he came through with a field goal and a foul. The work of John Uram and Shaffer at forwards stood out for the winners. These two boys played the best game of their career. Uram accounted for one field goal and two fouls while Shaffer was high scorer for the evening with two double deckers and two fouls.

For Butler the work of Keck and Fitzmartin featured. The defense presented by Butler was a puzzling one. This can be viewed by the number of goals made. New Castle could secure but four while Butler came through with four also.

Kid Francis Defeats Shea

Italian Bantam-Feather-weight Upsets Dope By Beating Eddie Shea

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—This Kid Francis, the Italian bantam-feather-weight who hasn't lost a bout since January 1929, is what you might call a costly fighter.

In 1928 the wise men of Broadway thought so little of the Italian bulldog that they made Archie Bell a 10 to 1 favorite to beat him. Francis won. Recently the sure-things gamblers took another financial shellacking when Francis upset the dope by trouncing Jimmy Slavin, leading Irish featherweight.

Shea Was Favorite
Francis again proved costly to the "wise money" lads along the main stem last night when he scored an easy victory over Eddie Shea, the Chicago Phenom, in a ten-round shindig at Madison Square Garden.

Shea, who had lost only three fights in the past five years, won only two rounds. Two were even and the other six went to Francis. Shea was the favorite at odds ranging from 8 to 5 to 2 to 1.

Bobbing, weaving and ducking and constantly forcing the pace, Francis forced Shea to the ropes time and again and weakened the pride of the midwest with his relentless body punching. Tommy Grogan, the knock-out specialist from Omaha, floored Herman Perlick one of the Kalamazoo twins, five times and won the decision. Jack (Kid) Berg, the junior welterweight champion, who recently out-pointed Perlick here, failed to floor him once.

Betty And Stella, Sprint Rivals, Meet Again On Boards

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Artist
Betty and Stella are to battle again.

The Northwestern university co-ed and the little Polish business girl from Cleveland are slated to pit their speed prowess against each other in Chicago, Feb. 23rd, in the first annual indoor track and field meet of the Military and Naval Athletic association.

Miss Betty Robinson was American 100-yard dash champion until last year when she was dethroned by Miss Stella Walsh who then went on to win the international 100-meter title in Poland last summer.

Miss Myrtle Cook, a fleet Canadian miss, former Olympic champion and a possible winner in this event, will compete against the two American girls but the spotlight of public interest will be on Betty and Stella. With the ex-100 yard queen, running against the girl who dethroned her this race is a "natural."

The trio-rated the three greatest women sprinters in the world—will be racing in a special event on the Military and Naval card—a 100-yard dash.

Victory in this race will win any one of the three unofficial recognition as the world's outstanding woman dash star. Stella is in trim for this race, having shown splendid bursts of speed in recent practice and official events.

Record time for the special is highly probable since all three girls are record breakers.

Prior to this indoor season Stella set new marks (indoor) for the 40, 50 and 220 yard events, besides new outdoor 100 and 220 yard records—all during 1930. Miss Robinson's five and four-tenths seconds for 50 yards (outdoor) set in 1929, still stands as a national record.

Miss Cook of Halifax in 1928 set a world mark of 12 seconds for the 100 meters. This record is yet unapproached.

Saint Reserves Beat Westminster Freshmen—St. Mary's Girls Victors

THREE FAST GAMES AT AUDITORIUM

The St. Mary's A. A. basketball team increased their winning streak last night at the St. Mary's Auditorium by downing the Westminster Freshmen 28 to 13, in a lopsided battle. The St. Mary's Reserves beat the Westminster Freshmen 28 to 13. The St. Mary's girls team beat the Annadale girls 21 to 9. All three games were well played.

The Saints took a commanding lead in the first quarter of their game at 14 to 7. The first half ended 30 to 9. The visitors could not score effectively against the locals, whereas the Saints were dropping them through from all angles. The end of the third period found the locals ahead 52 to 15. SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

Just as football, with overemphasis virtually exhausted as a timely topic, is about to fade into decent oblivion for at least a few months, Yale university grabs the game by the heels and slams it right across the sport pages again, eight-column headlines deep and black.

Yale's decision to close its grid season with Princeton in an alternating years—possibly a minor news item in the so-called effete east. What are still referred to as Big Three football circles are shaken to the core by the news.

Harvard to play Yale the prelude to the Blue's annual Princeton game? Cambridge is aghast. The Tigers to furnish great Eli's football finale for the first time in three decades? Nassau is wild with joy.

If Yale's decision to put an end to the tradition of Harvard always being the Blue's final football foe was made by the New Havenites in hopes of renewing the sundered Big Three rivalry, the plan is already a boomerang.

The move, annoying Harvard no little, most likely has pushed the possibility of a Harvard-Princeton football reunion further into the remote future.

If Harvard interprets Yale's actions as an effort to force the Crimson school to recognize Princeton as a Yale opponent of equal calibre—"good night! Harvard men have generally regarded their school as being Yale's dearest foe but now Yale appears to repudiate this. Natural, Harvard love for the Tiger is not increased.

Unbiased football followers are bound to applaud Yale's action. Disinterested folk will want to see the old Big Three system revived. While the three schools no longer are unquestioned top rank in the pigskin picture the triangle rivalry of these three ancient schools added of tone to the game.

The annual trio of football duels—Yale-Harvard, Yale-Princeton and Harvard-Princeton—were the original design from which all existing two-school football rivalries were patterned.

Though the Big Three football battles long ago lost significance in terms of national championships, they interested every follower of the game for use of their traditional quality. And three Big Three games each year are far more interesting than just two.

KEEPING IT HOT

Stove League Gossip

Though Boston's Red Sox may again next season lack sufficient fielding defense and batting punch to raise their standard out of the American league dust, the club will have a decent amount of pitching strength.

Nope, pitching shouldn't worry Manager Shano Collins as he puts his charges through their spring training paces.

Added to Milt Gaston, Horace Lisenbee, Jackie Russell, Danny MacFadden, Ed Morris and Ed Durham this year Collins will have the services of Wiley Moore, Johnny Brillheart and quite a number of other capable flingers.

Moore is the last looking prospect of the newcomers. He seems to have regained his old ability which made him a life-saver for the Yankees several years ago.

Hurling for St. Paul in the American Association last season Moore appeared to have regained control of his curve ball and his sinker. He won 22 games, which is a swell record in any man's league.

In the same minor league, Brillheart, tossing for the Minneapolis Millers, won 18 contests last season. He is a southpaw.

Another likely looking addition to the red rosed mound squad is Bob Kline, who won 25 and lost but nine hurling for Erie, Pa., last season. If these three men continue in their 1930 form Collins is going to be one happy manager.

Geneva Defeats Allegheny 39-25

(International News Service)

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 21.—Geneva College's quintet today was in possession of a decisive victory over Allegheny's floormen, the final score being 39-25. Allegheny was leading during the early part of the game, but slipped before a basket barrage by Manning and Aultman of the Genevans during the second frame. Manning tolled 8 field goals and Aultman six.

CAGER TRAINS TICKLING IVORIES

To keep his large, powerful hands flexible and strong, Eric Gandrup, Ohio Wesleyan university basketball and football player and discus thrower, plays the piano. Eric's mitts are so large he can cover 12 keys, an octave and a half. He can also span 14 of the 20 keys of an accordion. And, oh, yes, he plays by ear.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Many Stocks Make New Highs On Eve Of Holiday

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Strong and persistent buying of the market favorites in today's stock session forced prices to a new peak for the movement, many of the favorites reaching the best levels since last September's break.

Speculative enthusiasm, fanned by the new opportunities for money-making afforded in the spectacular rise in stock values this month, was again in evidence in the rush to buy the shares which have led the decisive upward move. Transactions in the first half-hour totaled 600,000 shares, punctuated by a rise of 10 1/2 points in Auburn. A 3-point jump in Houston Oil and an advance to the 1931 peak by American Can, United Gas Improvement, Consolidated Gas and other favorites.

Going into the second hour the market met stiffer opposition in the form of week-end and pre-holiday profit taking and short selling. Markets after today's closing do not re-open until Tuesday and many traders are adverse to "taking a position" over a double holiday. Vanadium, Dupont, Case and other speculative leaders sold slightly under Friday's closing prices.

Auburn Auto's 10 1/2-point rise to a new high at 209 1/2 was the feature of the specialties. Industrial Alcohol jumped 5 points to 72 1/2. Houston Oil went on a new rampage and moved up 4 points to 61 1/2, completing a 10-point rise since Monday. The annual reports, issued today, showed net income of $4.47 a share on the old stock in 1930. American and Foreign Power was in good demand and sold up 2 points at 44.

Youthful Heiress

Little five-year-old Jane Elizabeth Whitelaw, daughter of a well-known English racehorse owner and trainer, is probably one of the world's richest girls. A grand-aunt died recently, leaving an estate of approximately $10,000,000. The little English girl (shown above with her constant companion) was made heiress to a large portion of the huge estate.

NO. 2 MINE

Chair Rather Crude.

In appearance, the death chair is a rather crude looking piece of furniture and resembles an old fashioned barber chair, with a straight back. It stands out from the back wall of the room about ten feet, and about the center as between the two end walls of the room.

Back to the right of the chair is the switchboard, from which emanates the electric current that electrocutes those unfortunate enough to be in the chair. Leading into the switchboard are wires originating from a high tension line, which runs past the prison. This is a 22,000 volt line, but for purposes of electrocution it is stepped down by a transformer to 2,700 volts. This is the strength of the current which takes the lives of the condemned.

The concrete benches seating the witnesses and newspaper men are a part of the wall. Each of them seats six, this being the number of witnesses and the number of newspaper men allowed by law. Inside the room at the time of the execution will be the warden, the executioner, the prison physician, the

Rockview Penitentiary Ready For Grim Task

While the entire nation awaits news today of the progress of the party containing Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, preparations are being made at the state prison to receive them. Guards are on the alert, the death cells are being prepared, and the electric chair is being inspected to be sure that it is in perfect mechanical order.

The wranglings of a crime ridden world seem far away from the prison at Rockview. Situated some 600 yards back from the main highway it might easily be mistaken for a college or a university. The buildings are new, and designed with an eye to beauty as well as strong repressive purposes.

Semi-Circular Drive.
Winding up to the main cell block of the prison is a wide, semi-circular drive, while to the right of this is the outside office of the prison, closed by the main gate. The design

Red Lights On Fire Apparatus Are Violation

Benjamin G. Eynon, Declares Red Lights Are Used Illegally

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Feb. 21.—Red lights such as appear on the front of fire apparatus in this city and others of Pennsylvania, had been branded as illegal today by Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles.

"Red lights visible from the front of vehicles are specifically prohibited in section 809 of the vehicle code and it is with the thought of municipalities guarding themselves against this particular violation that I mention it," said Eynon.

"Several years ago this same question was the subject of considerable discussion and the same ruling was cited, but it appears now that there is a prevalent tendency on the part of a great many fire companies throughout the state to purchase and use these 'red' signals."

If we kin believe ever' buddy we talk to ther haint nothin' that's as equally distributed in this life as trouble. Trouble finds its way int' th' tall stately mansion among th' elms an' in th' humble cot. Th' smilin' grafter, th' well groomed man o' wealth, th' glossy loafer an' th' tired shoveler all have ther troubles.

We see a prosperous lookin' feller whizzin' by in a luxurious tourin' car an' we think how happy he must be. It never occurs t' us that he may be goin' t' th' depot t' meet a lot o' relatives, or has just paid two dollars t' have a valve ground.

People who act th' happiest may have th' most troubles. A feller may be all life an' sunshine in th' presence o' his associates an' brood when alone because he looks like the devil in a dress suit. A gushin' society belle may be th' queen o' her set an' still weep bitter tears because she's got a mole in th' wrong place. A husband may act a hearty supper an' chat pleasantly with members o' his household an' then jump in th' river t' keep from meetin' a note. A wife may be surrounded by ever' luxury 'day an' leave a note in th' mornin' sayin', 'I've gone t' Seattle.'

Trouble is jist a part o' th' scheme o' life an' no home seems t' be complete without its errin' son or daughter, its mortgage, its poverty, or calamity o' some sort. Trouble softens us. It disturbs that feelin' o' selfish security that's all too like-

Fellow Rotarian:
Do you know the movements of the Western Aryans and the Eastern Aryans back in 1000 B. C.? What country did the Gauls raid? 278 B. C.? What countries did the Huns enter and what empires were set up by their descendants? Can you describe the western drift of the Mongolian Nomads?

List Workmen Seeking Jobs On Dam Project

Many Making Application At State Office In Linesville

SHARON, Feb. 21.—In preparation for actual work on the Pymatuning dam, which is expected to go far toward relieving unemployment in this section of the state, the listing of the names of men wishing to obtain work on the project has been started at Linesville, where a local office of the department of forests and waters is maintained. Ralph J. Ferris, engineer of the department, is resident engineer in charge of the project.

Already many names have been placed on record in the local engineering offices. The name, residence and the kind of work desired is placed on record. Many have listed as wood-choppers or any labor that will go with clearing 9,000 acres that will be covered with water. In this area are 7,541 acres of land covered with woods and timber. Of brush and burned timber there are 872 acres. All of the timber must be cut from these acres and that would provide much work for men. The list on Monday showed that men had placed their names for these jobs, who lived from Meadville to New Lyme, Ohio. Some of the work will be done in Ohio.

There will be great quantities of wood and brush after the timber is all cut out. All that is left, together with brush, second growth and stumps around the shores of the lake will be cleaned up. Much will be burned. The building of a large bridge in the highway from Espyville to Andover will be a big job. It will be necessary to elevate the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad according to the report, for a distance of 9,000 feet, and build a new highway from Linesville to Espyville.
